

Purpose and Need for Agency Action

To reassess the appropriate mix of allowable uses with respect to oil shale/tar sands leasing and potential development.

Proposed Action

The BLM proposes to amend 10 land use plans in Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming to describe the most geologically prospective areas managed by the BLM in these states where oil shale and tar sands resources are present, and to decide which portions of those areas will be open, and which portion of those areas will be closed to application for commercial leasing, exploration, and development of oil shale and tar sands resources.
